

NEWS OF DAY AT SCOTSDALE BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Rooms for Housing
School Children Seem Necessary.

MAY BE DECIDED TONIGHT

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, March 5.—Saturday afternoon had been set as the time for the members of the Scottdale School Board to meet at the high school building and carefully go over all of the three buildings to see how many more rooms will be needed the coming year. The members who were present were Robert Skemp, J. M. Zimmers and Mrs. Ida Parker and as this was not a quorum, they looked over the building but took no action. It is likely that some action will be taken at the regular board meeting this evening. While there is nothing definite as yet, it is thought that two more rooms will be required to accommodate the children.

Mrs. Hartman Hostess.
Mrs. E. B. Hartman was hostess to the Saturday Afternoon Club at the regular meeting on Saturday afternoon. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

Talk to Men.
There was an excellent attendance at the men's meeting at the First Baptist Church yesterday when Rev. E. H. Stevens spoke on "Big Business." There was special music and a very enjoyable meeting in every respect was held.

Dance in Reld Hall.
A very enjoyable dance was given in Reld Hall on Saturday evening. Out of town guests were present from Latrobe and Conneltsville and Greensburg.

Auxiliary Meets Tonight.
The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. will meet at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 7:30 o'clock. As there is special business to be discussed a full attendance is desired.

Township Class Play.
The senior class of the East Huntingdon Township High School will give its play, "Fanny and the Servant Problem," on Monday evening, March 20, in the Scottdale Theatre. The junior play, "And Home Came Ted," will be given some time in April.

Orchestra Concert.
The United Brethren Sunday School Orchestra will give a concert in the United Brethren Church on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock to which everyone is invited. No admission will be charged. The orchestra has been enlarged to 20 pieces for the occasion. The following program will be rendered: March, "Spirit of Independence," orchestra; plantation, "Ole South," orchestra; soprano solo, Edna Hayes; mandolin-banjo, Herbert Medsger; selection, "I Gathered a Rose," orchestra; bass solo, "Asleep in the Battle," Alton Medsger; violin duet, "A Perfect Day," Little Nicklow and Prof. Gamble; overture, orchestra; "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginia," male quartet; reading, Miss Eva Rittenhouse; soprano solo, "Love Ship," Mrs. MacDonald; saxophone solo, Miss Cordeau; Kaffy, march, "Bliss of Peace," orchestra; whistling solo, Miss Jennie Becker; piano duet, Alton Medsger and Russell Merritt; selection, "At Sunset," orchestra; march, "American Red Cross," orchestra.

Constipation

Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.
When you are constipated, there is not enough lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action is so close to this natural lubricant. Try it today.

Try This Simple Test

One Reason Why

CASCARA QUININE

Acts On The Spot

HEALERS OF Q. Tablets are best by test. Try this simple experiment:

1. Dissolve a C. R. Q. Tablet in a glass of clear water.
2. Immediately the tablet begins disintegrating.
3. In 10 seconds the medical preparation is thoroughly mixed with water.

Then, HEALERS OF Q. Tablets act immediately, give relief without delay and begin attacking Colds and La Grippe long before ordinary tablets, for which test, are marked by the stomach pain. To prove this, subject after test, C. R. Q. Tablets to the test, and observe that in most instances no harm or more is required for complete disintegration.

Dissolve a C. R. Q. Tablet in red hot boiling water. The tablet is not harmed.

TYPHOID FEVER CASES REPORTED AT OLD BETHANY

ALVERTON, March 4.—Health Officer Frank Evans reports several cases of typhoid fever at Old Bethany. Chester Shawley of this place has moved on the C. A. Adams farm, where he will work this summer.

The literary societies rendered a fine program Friday afternoon. The parliamentary drill was especially good, every one taking part in it. Thirty-five young people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers to celebrate Mr. Myers' 18th birthday anniversary. A very sociable evening was spent and refreshments were served.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating
Acids.

Kidneys and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passing sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Advertisement

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

COMPENSATION'S FOES.

As the time approaches when Congress must take action on the Adjusted Compensation Bill, and thereby decide whether the pledge given the former service men is to be made good or repudiated, the opposition to the measure becomes more definitely placed as to its source and origin. What forms this opposition has taken and whence it comes are very clearly set forth in the current issue of The American Legion Weekly, in an article by Philip Von Blon. Noting that the more than three years of effort to kill the bill by "speaking softly and kindly" and even regretfully, against any adjustment of compensation for the ex-service men of the World War, have failed, the writer declares the "selfish financial and business interests of the country" which are opposed to the measure, have, in effect, said: "We'll kill it in cold blood." How this is being attempted is thus related by Mr. Von Blon:

The result has been, in the last months, a tremendous display of force, of organized opposition to the Adjusted Compensation Bill, which has manifested itself in several well-recognized campaigns. These have two objects: First, to try to overcome the decision of Senators and Representatives in favor of early passage of the bill; second, to try to reverse the over-riding public sentiment in favor of the measure.

This mighty drive to kill the Adjusted Compensation Bill has been centered in these five efforts:

1. The Washington lobbyists of banking, trade and commerce organizations have been endeavoring to keep the bill from coming to the floor of the House.

2. Anti-compensation newspapers have been conducting a news and editorial campaign, a violent campaign of propaganda against the measure, largely featured by the inspired violence of Washington correspondents who belong to the battalion of "death-to-the-bonus."

3. Throughout the country pressure is being used and wires are being pulled to work up a campaign of letter writing against the compensation bill.

4. The old tactics of using the disabled men as a shield, of showing evasive tears of sympathy, have been resorted to by many of the opponents of compensation in an effort to deceive public opinion.

5. Many and various forms of unpopular tactics have been used and exploited by enemies of the compensation bill in the effort to alarm and line up against the bill the interests and groups opposed to the taxes.

The first of these efforts has frankly been conducted to "defeat the bonus at any cost." The referendum conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on the options of the compensation bill was one of its earliest manifestations. The national chamber distributed to its affiliated trade and commercial bodies in practically all the sizable cities and towns of the country a large booklet purporting to give arguments pro and con on four questions relating to the benefits provided in the compensation bill. This booklet, cleverly prepared, giving an appearance of fair play, was designed to secure from each affiliated trade body an expression of disapproval for the Legion's bill as a whole.

The result of the referendum has been unfavorable to the Legion's bill, but it was by no means as uniformly successful as was anticipated. Voting among members of the chambers has revealed surprising friendships for the bill, some of the most influential organizations throughout the country having endorsed it.

The American Bankers' Association and the National Association of Manufacturers have been equally active in opposing the bill. Both have sent from Washington appeals to their members all over the country urging energetic steps to help kill the measure particularly by bringing pressure to bear on Senators and Representatives. Scores of lesser bodies have been doing the same thing.

It should be borne in mind that many of the organizations opposing the Legion's bill consist mostly of a few high-paid executives and a staff of lobbyists and propagandists at Washington. The individual members of the organization scattered throughout the country have had little to do with initiating or carrying on the anti-compensation drives, but in Washington the interlocked executives and lobbyists plan and decree and ask the outsiders to tag along, to play the game. These lobbyists in Washington have a close community of interests. They work together. Just now they are entrancing upon and vidual Senators and Congressmen every bit of influence, every bit of pressure they can muster. They plan and instigate unpopular tax proposals in connection with compensation to start backfires of sentiment. They are employing all the tricks of the professional to discredit the Legion's bill and those advocating it.

Many of these methods have caused protests from within their own organizations, members remonstrating because lobbyists are making unauthorized efforts not in accord with the sentiment of membership.

The various trade associations are carrying on their propaganda as far as possible beneath the surface of public attention. But the anti-compensation newspapers are showing no such modesty.

The press of New York City, which is often represented as the tuning fork which sets in vibration the sounding board of the whole nation's opinion, has been especially virulent in its opposition. The Herald, Sun, Telegram, World, Times, Globe and Post have been crusading with a zeal reminiscent of the war days. Outside New York the newspaper attacks have been less forceful. The fact that public opinion is overwhelming for the Legion's bill has received recognition.

While the metropolitan newspapers are branding ex-service men as "bonus beggars" and "bonus blackmailers," a forced campaign of letter writing against compensation is being pursued by the interests opposed to the measure. The stock tickers, the circulars of brokers to their customers, the propaganda being sent out by all the big trade associations contain the same urge: "Write to the President, to your senators, to your representatives. Write yourself. Have your employees write. Have your customers write."

The artificial expressions of sentiment thus inspired do not, of course, measure in volume with the honest letters in support of compensation being sent to Washington by friends of the measure. The principal objection to the bill is that it is a burden on the taxpayer. The anti-compensation drive have previously seemed to consider the subject of no interest.

All the foregoing facts show that the last minute effort to defeat the compensation bill really is well-organized and formidable. Whether the Legion with truth as its greatest ally can prevail now is undecided. But there is no doubt of the eventual decision of Congress. The soul and conscience of the nation cannot be weighted down with gold much longer.

The great public at large which has not allowed selfish greed to outweigh all considerations of gratitude for the men who stood ready to sacrifice their all in the hour of their country's greatest need, has never been in sympathy with any effort to defeat compensation and it intends to see that Congress does its duty without much more equivocation, side-stepping or delay.

All in the Same Boat

Farm Life.

Whatever may happen to the coal miners and the railroad workers in their campaign against reduced wages, it is apparent that the farm laborer has been pretty well delisted. Under present conditions farmers cannot afford to pay, and will not pay for hired help, anything approaching the sums paid to organized labor in the industries. This is hard for the hired men, and in the end will be hard for men in the cities.

No combination of labor groups will be able to resist the necessity of equalizing the costs of production between agriculture and manufacture. You may have cheap bread and expensive shoes for a year or two, but you cannot have them forever. It will be cheap bread and cheap shoes, or dear bread and dear shoes, when the readjustment is over. The logical thing and the best thing will be to have both bread and shoes reasonably priced and produced under conditions that will give the farmer and business man a living wage and a fair profit.

To paraphrase the revolutionary hero's epigram, we must all prosper together or suffer poverty separately, for agriculture and industry have only a single interest. Business has been sharply reminded of the fact that it cannot prosper when the farmer has hard times, and the farmer may take the lesson to heart. He cannot further his own best interests by any form of retaliation.

TO LIVE.

Life is not gathering gold nor jeweled plate. Nor building monuments of steel and stone. He cheats the years who lives for these alone. He sacrifices much who would be great, and off the path to glory flies the great.

Along the by-paths are the morose grown. There dwell the kindly friends who smile and wait. To share the joy with which the hours are flown.

To spend some strength to win another's smile. To play with children and to know the good. To share the joy with which the hours are flown.

Seeking no fortune nor toward the wealth. To share in all the joy one has to give. To share the joy with which the hours are flown.

WHEN YOU'VE GOT A COLD.

You can't enjoy the music when your eyes are flaming red. You can't enjoy the singing for the blinding in your head. The sunbeams may be dancing all about you on the floor. And Mister Opportunity be standing at your door. But you have no wish for glory and you've lost the love of a girl. When your bronchial tubes are wheezy and you're suffering from a cold.

You can't be very happy when you're forced to cough and sneeze. There is nothing that is pleasing in the things that ought to please. Your dinner may be dainty, and you eat exactly right. But there's nothing in the table that can tempt your appetite. And you cannot start a chicken when a funny tale is told. Life is just one dismal burden when you've got a rotten cold.

Your friends may throng about you but your thoughts are far away. And your cold seems more important than the things they have in play. Though each throat comfort at your side, there is none for you to know. And you slip through chills and fever to the deepest depths of woe. Life may have a thousand blessings, for the joys are meant for you. But you're doomed to gloom and torment when you're suffering from a cold.

Monessen Takes Measure of Coker Team; Score Is 37-26; City League Games Tonight

High School Has Now Won 13 and Lost Same Number in Season.

WEST NEWTON HERE NEXT

The Connelville High School basketball team, tired by its prime effort against Scottsdale Friday night, was a little slow in getting started in the game at Monessen Saturday evening and lost 37-26 to the High School outfit at that place.

The Cokers played a hard contest throughout their usual added aggressiveness in the second half, cutting down innumerable scores from the floor by the Monessen outfit.

McCormick and Solson were the only scorers on the Connelville team, each getting three baskets. Yeagst, forward for Monessen, found his place on the free line in the second half and scored nine out of 11 attempts in that period.

The line-up: Connelville-26 McCormick, Solson, Yeagst, Sichi, P. Pillette, Lowney, J. Pillette, Welsh, Schradling, Nixon.

Substitutions—Harmon for Lowney, Lowney for McCormick, McCormick for Harmon, Gelsky for Nixon, Borstani for Sichi, Sichi for Schradling, Chalfant for Borstani, Janiwatz for Sichi, Myers for Janiwatz.

Field goals—P. Pillette 3, McCormick 3, Sichi 3, Solson 3, Yeagst 2, S. Pillette, Schradling, Janiwatz.

BASEBALL MEETING TO BE HELD AT "Y" ON FRIDAY NIGHT

A meeting of all persons interested in a summer baseball league here will be held Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. The baseball matter was taken up by the trustees of the association some time ago and although it was determined to make baseball a big thing in the "Y" this year, there has been little done recently.

Along just what lines the game will be played has not been determined but some sort of organization will be founded after it is determined what teams will be interested.

Dickerson Run Tightens Hold in Y. M. C. A. League

DAWSON, March 6.—Dickerson Run won three straight games from Stoney Hill's Fort Hill Tigers Friday night and still holds the lead in the Y. M. C. A. League by a good margin. The score:

Dickerson Run	Fort Hill
Rathbun	106
Moxie	136
Robertson	109
Good	153
Kessler	91
Stambaugh	151

Tigers	Dickerson Run
White	80
Russell	104
Whipkey	118
Sproat	171
Muller	107

The Y. M. C. A. League is very interesting. The six teams are going strong but the Dickerson Run boys still hold down first place by a big lead which will be hard to overcome. The other five teams are well bunched and any one of them looks good for second place. The season will close in April.

Just before the game between Dickerson Run and Fort Hill, George Moore, a member of the Dawson team rolled a score of 201 and after the match game came right back with a score of 217. When George gets going right he is a hard one to beat.

SCOTSDALE HIGH DEFEATS D. T. H. S.

Scottsdale High School defeated Dunbar Township 11 in a hard fought game Saturday night, 33-14. English played the best game for Scottsdale, getting five field goals and scoring other points from the foul line.

The line-up: Dunbar-14 White, Pritchard, English, Bradley, Rogers, Moore, Goldenson, Teichert, Maloy, Smith.

Substitutions—Walters for White, Valtine for Moore. Field goals—English 5, White, Maloy 2, Goldenson 2, Walters 3, Pritchard 3, Valtine.

Foul goals—English, 7 out of 12, Pritchard, 6 out of 13.

Referee—Wilson.

Frat-Snyder, Capstan and A. L. to Play

The City League holds promise of two interesting games tonight. The contests will come off at the Parochial Hall and under some changes made last week by the Board of Control the Capstan-Legion game will be played first, followed by the Snyder-Unity Fraternity mix-up.

The Legionaires have been receiving their slide in the past few games and will soon be making league leaders step out. Capstan may show the form the team is known to have developed, but which it seems unable to uncover on the open floors of the league, and give the former soldiers a run.

The Snyder-Frat episode promises to be interesting. Manager Snyder has been hustling after his players urging them to come out and make the games worth-while. He will have a strong line-up ready this evening it is believed and the Frat will have to extend every effort. The Frat does not feel eliminated from the chase yet, even though the first game of the season was lost to the Casys.

On Wednesday the Casey-Baltimore & Ohio Club clash, scheduled first has been shifted to Friday for the evening. The games on all following Wednesday have been veered around.

The Cokers have now won 14 and lost the same number during the season. There are still seven more games to be played, five at home and two on the road. The two road contests are with Greensburg and Dunbar Township.

A few crowds like the one attending the game with Scottsdale and Connelville might be better in the sport line. As it is, ends badly meet.

The games at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night will be between the Fayette Bakers and the Methodists. The Baptists and Unity Fraternity Reserves will play the second game.

The Unity Fraternity outfit in the City League and the "Reserves" in the Y. M. C. A. League are different outfits, but both from the same club. The Frat regulars are used at the Y. League only when the second "Frat" play out.

The St. Vincent basketball team defeated the South Side Preps, 18-19 in a game at the Parochial Hall Saturday night.

Connellsville High School has two games at home this week-end. West Newton an old rival will be here Friday night and on Saturday the stout Washington team will be here.

Sporting Squibs of All Kinds

Harvard has twenty-seven coaches for its crew.

Kentucky Derby will carry $50,000 added money for the winner this season.

Yale baseball nine may play the Auburn collegians in their Southern trip in the spring.

Ernest Baker, of Detroit, one-handed pocket billiard player, pocketed 100 balls in an exhibition.

It will soon be time for the annual epidemic of inflated heads among the baseball player fraternity.

The Indianapolis club announces the purchase of Harry Purcell, outfielder, from the Iowa club of the Central league.

The Pacific Northwest association's water polo championship is to be held at the Spokane (W. T. A. C.) for the first time in many years.

Tom Thorp, new coach for the New York university football team, is to be paid the highest salary ever given a football coach in the Metropolitan district.

High Spots in Career of Champion M'auliffe

March 24, 1890—Born in Cork, Ireland.

Came to America when a mere child.

Apprenticed in a croper shop in Williamsburg, N. Y., where Jack Dempsey, former middleweight champion, also was an apprentice.

1894—Won amateur lightweight championship of New York.

1895—Claimed and defended world's lightweight championship.

Nov. 16, 1897—Fought 74-round draw with Jim Carney of England at Revere Beach, near Boston, the crowd stopping the bout when it saw McAuliffe was losing.

Feb. 23, 1899—Fought 64-round draw with Billy Myer.

Sept. 5, 1902—Knocked out Billy Myer in 15 rounds at New Orleans.

1903—Retired from ring, an undefeated champion.

EXPECT NO CHANGES IN TROTTERING RULES

Joint Committee Failed to Reach Any Conclusion.

Had Harness Horse Association Been Allowed a Voice, Several Improvements Would Have Been Made in Regulations.

Because of the failure of the joint committee, composed of representatives from the American and National Trotting associations, a function the rules that have governed all harness race meetings will remain unchanged this year.

The practice of having a joint body to make a uniform rule for both bodies has governed in recent years. This year the appointment of the representatives was made in the familiar form again but because of the fact that representatives from the Harness Horse association, the body of campaigning horsemen, were on hand to join in the conference, the national committee refused to take part. They were agreeable to the presence of the H. H. A. committee in an advisory way, but didn't believe that the H. H. A. an organization lacking in administrative or legislative powers for racing should have a vote upon the rule.

Because of this lack of agreement it is probable that several changes of the present rules were avoided. At least there were a number of changes advised by both the H. H. A. and the American association and it is more than probable that had the representatives of the H. H. A. been allowed a voice in the joint committee meeting the suggested changes would have come through.

One proposed change was the elimination of win race records taken prior to the week of July 1 in so far as eligibility was concerned. This proposal was headed by many horsemen as having the necessary encouragement for early season racing. It was feared that horsemen did not try to win in many early season instances because of the danger of taking a record and getting out of late engagements. Also, it was claimed, that with this change many horses in previous years not starting at all before July would be raced, inasmuch as there would be no penalty in the way of a win race record in the event of winning.

PREFER CATCHERS TO PILOT

Club Owners in National League Show Strong Desire to Use Catchers to Manage.

There seems to be a strong desire among baseball club owners to select catchers to pilot teams. No less than six backstops will manage National League clubs this year, five from the bench, and Bill Killefer of the Chicago Cubs from behind the bat. Killefer is an active catcher and a good one. The others are Mitchell of the Boston Braves, Gibson of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals, Morab of the Cincinnati Reds and Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins.

Gibson was probably the greatest star among the lot. He was the leading backstop during his day, when an active player with the Pittsburgh team under Fred Clark.

In the American League Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and Lee Fohl represent the catching brigade who are managers. Mack is the oldest manager in major league baseball, having turned sixty years. He was catching in 1896 and was sold by Hartford to Washington in the old National League.

EXTERMINATOR TO STAY HERE

Owner Kilmier Lets It Be Known That Great Cup Horse Won't Be Shipped to England.

Foreign laurels will not come to Exterminator. The great cup horse will be kept in America. It was the intention of his owner, Willis Sarge Kilmier, to ship him to England to race in distance classes, but the Ringhamton sportsman has reconsidered. At present the famous gelding is at Sun Brar court, where he will do light training preparatory to being shipped to Maryland. As he went into winter quarters a thoroughly sound horse, it is believed he will have another successful season.

MANY ENGINEERS SEEK NEW FIELDS

Jobless Trained Men Forced to Ask Work in Other Lines.

EVEN STIRE JOBS ARE SOUGHT

Some Employed as Watchmen. The Times Herald—Thousands of Engineers in All Parts of the Country Are Idle—Mining Experts Are the Hardest Hit—Result May Be That Engineering Will Be Extended to New Fields—Staring Relief in Sight.

Forced by the general condition of unemployment to seek new fields, engineers of the metropolitan district of New York have formed a volunteer committee to open up fresh avenues of effort. Department stores, industrial establishments and many branches of trade, commerce and manufacturing are being thoroughly canvassed to uncover hidden jobs into which, under modern methods of organization, it is thought the engineer can be fitted.

Thousands of engineers, mostly graduates of colleges and technical schools, are idle in all parts of the country. It was said by Walter V. Brown, manager of the employment service of the Federated American Engineering Societies. The situation is so bad that the service maintained by the societies is being supplemented by volunteer assistance.

Mining Engineers Hit Hardest

The mining engineers are the hardest hit. J. F. Sharpless, secretary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, said that it was impossible to determine the number of such engineers out of employment, but he would not be surprised if the number reached 5,000. Mr. Sharpless said that relief would be experienced in the mining industries soon with the resumption of operations in the big copper mines. The institute normally has 10,000 members.

The institute's data on unemployment revealed many cases in which men in normal periods earned from $2,000 to $15,000 a year were given to hunt minor jobs, such as watchmen, or were out of work altogether.

The volunteer committee now at work, principally in the New York district, is composed of thirty men. F. H. Bond of Baltimore, a major in the reserve department during the war, has been appointed chairman. An executive committee consists of W. M. Cutely and George Beavers Jr. of New York and C. B. Good of White Plains.

Mr. Cutely said that idleness was likely to result in the extension of engineering to new spheres. When the volunteers called on the department stores they were received with alacrity. Some have been traditionally regarded as foreign to engineering. Now, however, the possibilities of engineering training are beginning to be better understood. Cost methods, simplification of systems and personnel were activities, he said, to which industrial engineers might properly apply their efforts.

Many seek jobs. The employment service conducted by the Federated American Engineering Societies is free. Mr. Brown said that 1,100 men in different parts of the country were on the active list seeking employment. During the early part of January 125 positions were filled, and for these 600 men were sought.

Mr. Cutely said that instead of going over prepared ground a careful study of possibilities was made, and these fields were found to offer new opportunities for the engineer: industrial covering manufacturing, construction and consulting work; banking, accounting, insurance, department stores, filling and publication. Mr. Brown gave the number of men registered during 1921 at the Federation's Employment Service as 1,905. Of them, 1,500 were placed in positions. More than were placed in December than in any other month, and more men were registered in June than in any month, the low mark in this respect being in November.

It was said that nationally the civil engineers ranked next to the mining engineers in numbers of unemployed, with the electrical engineers third. The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the largest organization of engineers in the country, with a membership of more than 16,000, was believed to be the least affected.

INFANT FINE SPELLER

Long Words Have No Terrors for This Little Lad.

The words Mediterranean, plenitude, democracy, formaldehyde, acclamation, constitutional, dissipation, authoritatively, and other similar ones, hold no terrors to Fern Waterman, four-and-one-half-year-old phenomenal speller, who lives in the Oak Hill, near Bridgeville, Wis.

Whenever the lad comes to town with his parents he soon becomes the center of interest. He frequently gives exhibitions of his spelling prowess. One of the things the youngster likes to do is to stand on the station platform and when a train stops to take water or wait while baggage is being handled, Fern spells for the passengers.

None of the jawbreakers that so frequently "stump" adults give Fern any trouble. The lad spells all of them with comparative ease.

The Inducement. "I will run again if there is an overwhelming demand."

"I think I can get a petition signed by our four or five office-holders, Senator."

"All right. It won't take much to overwhelm me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Instructive. "This this photograph you are talking about any educational value?"

"Have you ever seen a roulette wheel in operation?"

"No."

"It will educate you to that extent."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Advance Showing for the Season of 1922

The hot summer months will soon be here and you will need a refrigerator. When you do, see us. All kinds and all prices.

The Belding Hall

stone lined refrigerator, is a leader. This is the only stone lined refrigerator on the market. This stone lining is known as granitewood. It will not break, leak, crack, rust, and will not absorb dampness or germs. The corners are round and easily cleaned. It is all one piece, therefore has no cracks to harbor germs.

Healthfulness is best produced by cleanliness. Where there is cleanliness the air must be sweet and pure. A refrigerator is not necessarily healthful because it maintains extremely low temperature. Cold helps to retard decay, but cleanliness must be considered also. The three-inch walls make a low temperature, and the stone lining guarantees cleanliness.

The Leonard Cleanable

Refrigerators are "Like a Clean China Dish." A Leonard Cleanable, porcelain lined refrigerator is one of the best made. The corners are round. This makes the cleaning easy. The numerous baffle walls provide perfect insulation from the heat. There are a hundred other features we will be glad to explain to you.

We have all kinds of refrigerators and ice boxes at all prices.

In order to stimulate the early buying of refrigerators, we are offering a 10% discount from the regular price.

Come in and see them. If you don't want one now you will later.

CRUELEST ASSASSIN KNOWN AS "GOLD TOOTH"

Kin of Sain Portuguese Statesman Talks Court of Sallors' Atrocities.

A sailor, known as "Gold Tooth," is the principal person among the ten charged with the assassination of Premier Grunjo and other Portuguese statesmen in the revolution on October 19.

He admits that he accompanied the other soldiers and sailors in the raids on the statesmen's homes, but contends that he did so to save the lives of those chosen to be victims of the revolutionaries.

Confronted by the son and the brother of Admiral Machado Santo, founder of the Portuguese Republic and one of the assassinated men, he was accused by both of them as one of the most cruel and insolent of the savage group of men who broke into Santo's house and dragged him to his death.

A similar scene occurred when Bertha da Maja, widow of Commander Carlos da Maja, another victim, was brought face to face with this sailor in court. Pointing at him, she burst into sobs and cried:

"There stands my husband's assassin. When the others hesitated, when on my knees before them, holding my baby in my arms, I implored them to spare my husband's life, that wild beast there, seeing they were inclined to mercy, shouted at them and pushed my husband into their midst, asking them if they were going to let live the man who sent them to Africa four years before. And they took him away and murdered him."

Health Habits for Children.

Health instruction and its result in the formation of habits is the subject of a daily record of health habits for every child in the schools of Washington, D. C., according to the United States bureau of education. Blanks are marked after the morning daily inspection by the teacher. Each school day a mark is given for the pupil's observance of such habits as brushing the teeth, carrying a handkerchief, keeping a good posture, taking thirty minutes physical exercise. Thirteen health habits are noted. At the end of a month a rating is given to correspond with the daily record, and the sheet is sent home folded around the report card, to be signed by the parent and returned. It is expected thus to secure the co-operation of the home in inculcating health habits. Children showing extreme neglect are referred to the school nurse.

HAS CONTROL STATION FOR AERIAL EXPRESS

Standing high above the buildings of London is a huge tower known as the London air station. From this tower the wireless operator can communicate with any air express flying between England and the coast. The controller in his lofty perch gets a clear view of the aerodrome and surrounding country. He can communicate with the aerodromes on the ground by megaphone and in the air by wireless phone. He can by the use of the wireless make an express down to safety even though the whole district be enshrouded in fog or mist.

Very lights, which were used to signal with during the war are being put to a new use. This shows the controller on one of the balconies firing a very light pistol to signal to a passing express.

STEER GOES ON RAMPAGE

Brooklyn Policeman Lassows Goat in Wild West Fashion.

"I have been attacked by a bull," said a feminine voice over the wire to the lieutenant on desk duty at the Greenpoint Avenue station, Brooklyn. "What do you mean, 'bull' a cow?" inquired the lieutenant.

"No," she replied, "a kind of cow with horns."

Policeman Blusworth, Lord, who admitted experience on a Western ranch, was hurried to the foot of Meeker avenue, whence the call came.

One look was enough. There was a steer running wildly about. It had broken from a lot of 60 at the New-Creek boat landing. Pelestinians were rushing for doorway and all manner of hiding places.

Lloyd got a clothesline, lassoed the steer and tied it to a telegraph pole until a representative of the Liberator Brothers, slaughter owners at Johnson and Morgan avenues, claimed the animal and led it away to slaughter.

BELONG TO PREHISTORIC DAY

Bones of Whales Possibly Ten Thousand Years Old Recently Unearthed on English Farm.

The skeletons of two whales, dating back, it is supposed, 10,000 to 12,000 years, were found by two workmen on a farm near Peterborough, according to the Westminister Gazette. Some of the teeth and bones were submitted to Doctor Garrod of Alconbury hill, Huntingdonshire, and he, in company with two zoological experts, visited the farm and obtained all the bones, with the result that one of the whales has been set up.

The whales were lying side by side under the peat, and just embedded in the clay. On the whole the bones are in good condition, and those that have been taken out carefully are scarcely broken. Unfortunately, the skulls are damaged.

It is believed that many thousand years ago these whales, and perhaps others, swam up a creek when the "wash" came further inland, and got caught at the top of a spring tide in a place where they were unable to turn.

Another theory has been advanced, though it is rather far-fetched. Some years ago a prehistoric boat was dug up in the same field, and the suggestion has been made that the crew of the boat was hunting the whales at the particular period.

Unlucky Tom.

A real old fashioned Yankee was telling a friend of the ill luck experienced by his son Thomas.

"Take the last case, as an example," he said. "Just as soon as he went to Boston to work, Tom fell in love. She lived in one of the suburbs, and directly Tom made up his mind he liked her, he went and bought a fifty-dollar ticket to her place and—"

"What happened?" Why, he was turned down at the second call and the ticket was left on his hands if that isn't hard luck, please tell me what is!"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

New Ship Signals for Use in Fog.

Most ship collisions in fog are due to the difficulty in detecting the exact direction that the whistle and bell signals come from. A veteran sea captain has devised a new method to overcome this.

He uses four signal horns of different tones, two steam, a steam whistle and a steam gong, all operated by foot levers. Each of these corresponds to one of the cardinal points of the compass, and is sounded in a fog only when the ship is headed in that direction.

"It's all his fault," said the fair defendant in a divorce suit. "He showered luxuries on me and taught me how to spend money."

"Have you anything to say to that?" asked the court.

"Nothing, your honor," replied the plaintiff, mournfully. "Except that she was an apt pupil."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Nothing Lacking. "Nifty house you've got there, old man. All modern improvements, I presume."

"Oh, yes, including a complete set of mortgages."

Not Claiming Too Much. "I see a certain sect claims that next year the millennium will begin."

"Well, for my part I am not such an enthusiastic Republican as all that."

Hubby—For heaven's sake, what kind of a rig is that? Wifey (haughtily): That's a muller.

Hubby: Good. You should have worn one years ago.

Hope. I may live to be ninety. But how if I do. The good friends around me will live that long, too.

Hor Fear. "I hope my husband won't get involved into any games with those card sharps."

"Oh, he'll know when they are trying to cheat him."

"I'm not afraid of that, but you know, he's a sharpshooter."

Question for Question. "Could you be content with love in a cottage?" inquired the admiring gentleman.

"Let me understand you," rejoined Miss Cayenne. "Are you making love or discussing the housing problem?"

His Difficulty. Real Estate Agent—This tobacco plantation is a bargain. I don't see why you hesitate. What are you worrying about?

Prospective but Inexperienced Purchaser—I was just wondering whether I should plant cigars or cigarettes.—American Legion Weekly.

Obscurity of Greatness. "What will be Senator Snodgrass's place in history?" "That's hard to say. The narrative of the senator's achievements is limited chiefly to the Congressional Record. Since nobody reads that ponderous work now, I'm afraid posterity will be equally negligent."

Good Old Days. "Do you think we are getting back to the good old days?"

"There isn't a doubt of it," replied Senator Sorghum. "People are going into print with perfect confidence with the same old anecdotes that made me laugh in early childhood."

What About Ten Years From Now?

Suppose—just for a moment—that you knew your income would be cut off ten years from today. Knowing that, wouldn't you begin right now to prepare for it?

Here is what you would probably do: You would limit your expenditures to a sum which would permit you to save a definite amount every pay-day, and set it aside for the future—where it would earn interest meantime. This might be difficult, but you would do it because you would have to make the present provide for the future. And with the incentive of necessity, you would accumulate a considerable reserve fund.

It's because that sort of thing is really possible that we urge you to try it—and to secure for your future some of the real satisfaction which comes when you get ahead of your expenditures and save money. In ten years, or fifteen, you could perhaps own your home, or your business, or be well along toward an independent income. The start lies in a Colonial Savings Account. Keep one growing!

Storm Country Polly

"You ain't goin' to die till I tell you something, Miss," she broke forth, finally. "It ain't news to you, but I just got to make you understand why I'm putting you in the lake."

Weakness kept Evelyn from answering. Her eyes rolled up toward the shanty roof, then shut at the thought of the icy waters of Cayuga.

"I can't hurt your wicked man 'cept in through you, went on Polly. 'No squatters are goin' to learn him a lesson he won't forget as long as he's in this world. You can bet your boots on that!'"

As if in support of the terrible words, the shanty shook, rattling the loosened bits of tin on the roof. At the ghastly sound Evelyn began to cry.

"I know just how your man'll feel," continued Polly, a bitter smile distorting her lips into a grimace of pain, "as to does Larry Bishop, Larry's woman an' baby died when Old Marc went down in Cayuga, an' the best of us cracked when he grabbed Jerry right out of my arms."

Both girls sobbed loudly. Then Polly cleared her throat and wiped her face.

"An' your man railroaded my daddy to Auburn," she gasped, "after plantin' something on him he didn't do; an' you, every one of you, knew it."

Her voice rose to a high-pitched scream as she remembered the last scene in the county jail.

"An' wasn't it awful!" she cried. "An' you—she leaned over and grasped Evelyn's arm. "You could let me go to Auburn if you'd 'a' tried, but you didn't. An' then—then you said you didn't give me that dress. You're all there—an'—an'—snobs, you money folks be."

Her hand reached out and touched the ax, but she withdrew it as if an adder had been under her fingers. She was not yet able to do the deed which she had longed to do and thought would be a joy. Her head sagged forward, and again came Jeremiah's weeping face before her.

"If you'd 'a' seen my daddy in the Auburn jail, maybe you'd be able to think what I'm goin' to do is all right. Yep, all right!" she rasped.

Then she went on hoarsely, faltering as she described the horrors that all her loved ones had gone through. Her voice choked and became silent as she thought of Robert. She could not force her tongue to say a word about him, although her heart throbbed bitterly as his name came to her lips.

"Money!" she whispered brokenly, lifting her head. "Did you hear your man say money to our squatters as if cash'd pay for Larry's woman an' Jerry an' my daddy? You heard, didn't you?"

Evelyn's head sagged forward, and a spasm passed over her face as her eyes closed. She looked as if she had died. Polly Hopkins had seen death enter the silent City many a time; and her heart-strings tightened.

"Are you gone?" she questioned in a hissing whisper.

The other girl's lids lifted slowly, and never had Polly seen such an expression in human eyes as in all her life.

"Not yet," dropped from the blue lips, "and—oh—oh, Polly, I'm so afraid to die. I don't know how! Oh, God, help me! I feel so sick."

"Taddy were sick, too," shot back Polly, "an' Jerry's turned up his toes by this time! I ain't heard a word from him since he was took away. Maybe I could 'a' seen him if you hadn't made your cousin believe I were a bad woman! What do you know about babies, an' how cunnin' an' sweet they are? You're as wicked as hell! It can't be better off when you're foot for the fishes. I'm glad your man'll live, though. Lordy, how I laughed when he bustled into the shanty. And there was you right beside me! Huh! Wasn't it a good job on Old Marc?"

The speaker held Evelyn's stare, the chestnut eyes glittering as the question was fairly put out.

"I can't die, Polly," groaned Evelyn, her head drooping against the cot. "Oh, Polly dear, listen—please—"

Polly reached out for the ax. "Don't you dare 'Polly dear' me," she grunted convulsively, "or I'll hit you with this!"

"Tough—Marc's baby! Evelyn's baby! Like a hive of bees, the joy of dissipating the home of Marcus MacKenzie buzzed through her brain. No sound came from the girl on the floor, for Evelyn MacKenzie had given up all hope. The squatter girl was crazy. No human being could entertain such a ghastly purpose and be in his right mind!

Presently she called Polly's name faintly, and then again: because Polly gave her no heed, she cried louder: "Polly, my feet hurt so! I can't bear it!"

Polly paused, leaning against the wall and glared at her. "I'm glad they do that," she muttered. "You can't hurt anywhere too much to suit me!"

Then something gave way behind her, and wheeling around, she found herself staring into the face of "The Greatest Mother in the World." Daddy's dark-covered coat which had hidden the picture all the past weeks lay at her feet.

As she looked, the glare left Polly's eyes. The serious face that had once smiled at her the smile that had been a benediction for herself and Daddy Hopkins, was there no longer. Rather, there was an expression of sorrow. Death rested in the nurse's arms, but from her whole reverent attitude the sense of protection swept out at Polly Hopkins.

Then suddenly she heard a man's voice. It seemed to drift into the hut through every crevice and crack. "An' you're the Greatest Mother in the World," came plainly to her.

Like one struck, she stood rooted to the spot. Evelyn MacKenzie over her head reached out and touched the ax, but she withdrew it as if an adder had been under her fingers. She was not yet able to do the deed which she had longed to do and thought would be a joy. Her head sagged forward, and again came Jeremiah's weeping face before her.

"If you'd 'a' seen my daddy in the Auburn jail, maybe you'd be able to think what I'm goin' to do is all right. Yep, all right!" she rasped.

Then she went on hoarsely, faltering as she described the horrors that all her loved ones had gone through. Her voice choked and became silent as she thought of Robert. She could not force her tongue to say a word about him, although her heart throbbed bitterly as his name came to her lips.

Polly reached out for the ax. "Don't you dare 'Polly dear' me," she grunted convulsively, "or I'll hit you with this!"

"God—Jesus!" came from between Evelyn's chattering teeth. "No, don't pick it up! Don't! Oh, I want to tell you something, Polly Hopkins!"

"Then fire ahead," Polly grumbled sullenly.

She withdrew her fingers from the ax-handle and leaned her chin in the palm of her hand.

brown eyes were softly luminous. The lips which only a little while ago were strained and blue now were scarlet and fraught with sympathy. What wonderful thing had happened? Polly had taken the rope off her feet and hands. She could wriggle a little, although her flesh hurt dreadfully when she tried it.

Prompted by the attempted movement, Polly dropped to her knees and began to chafe the injured ankles.

"I'm goin' to give you back in your man," she said, grinning. "But you got to swear to him I swiped you, an' not any squatter men. He'll jail me forever, maybe, but I don't care about that. I love Larry an' Eve Bremer too much to haul 'em into this!"

Then her face fell beside Mrs. MacKenzie's, and she wept hysterically. Evelyn's fingers clutched at the chestnut curls.

"Polly, oh, Polly, darling!" "This was all she could say, for she, too, was weeping even more wildly than the other. In the presence of such divine unselfishness, the points of her withered soul seemed to lift and open, as she groped for a broader understanding.

"Granny Hope learned me a lot of things," came up to Evelyn brokenly. "She always said, 'Granny Hope did that love was stronger than an' I must just pray your man wouldn't be so wicked to us squatters.'"

The gleaming brown head rolled back and forth in consuming agony. "Don't, Polly, darling," Evelyn begged. "Don't, it's all right now. And my husband will—"

Polly sat up, brushing back damp ringlets from her brow. "He won't do nothing to help me," she shot out. "Nothing at all! First, I know him better than you do. Then next, I wouldn't side him. Cause 'cause I'm that bad, I ought to be without my Daddy Hopkins an' my Jerry baby!" Her voice rose in wild appeal. "But, God dear, how much I want 'em. Oh, how I want 'em!"

The words cut into Evelyn's heart with the keenness of physical pain. Only a little while before she had stood alone at the brink of the grave. There had been no hope that the summer would bring a helpless wife living to add her cost to Marcus'. But now—

Her thoughts whirled. So great was her faith in Polly Hopkins that she knew in a little while she would be back in her husband's arms.

The attack of weeping over, Polly arose and beat again into the hut the bread and hot water. "This time she took all the sugar left in the cupboard. Daddy would not be home for over two years, and Baby Jerry probably never, and she—she wouldn't be in the shanty long. Grounding, she whipped the spoon so fiercely that some of the contents of the cup splashed on the floor.

"It ain't very toothsome," she said, coming back to the cot; "but the best of it, an' you need a lot of warm'n' up. I'm goin' now an' get your man. You get this hot pop into your stomach while I'm gone."

Evelyn wiped the cup away, holding out a shaking hand. "I don't want you to go without me, Polly," she cried. "Please, don't leave me here alone. I'm terribly scared, I—"

The grave young squatter contemplated her for the space of twenty seconds, perhaps.

"You're afraid of the fisher men, ain't you, Miss?" she asked. "Well, you've got a right to be. Larry's different from the rest, though he was as willin' up to this night, to chop off your head, as me. But Larry's heart's soft and kind, Larry's is."

"I'm afraid of everybody," gasped Evelyn. "Everybody but you, Polly."

There against the bed faded from her mind. Old Marc's haunted face went away as if it had never seared her vision. Over and over the delightful words Robert had spoken to her rushed into her ears and stamped themselves in golden fire on her memory.

"I love you, Polly," touched her like a caress, and "You're my little girl," fell upon her like the tender hand of Granny Hope's God.

"The Greatest Mother in the World," whispered Polly; and then something hard and hateful within her broke, and the flood-tides of love came pouring in. As when a dam bursts, the pent-up waters sweep away all the accumulated rubbish in the old unused channels, so was the squatter girl's heart cleansed of every unlovely emotion. To her uplifted vision "The Greatest Mother in the World" smiled again in benediction; and beyond her, dim in the background, appeared a wrinkled, toothless smile, and Polly heard Granny Hope's withered lips saying:

"Love's the hull thing, best. Just love, an' love, an' keep on lovin'!"

Fruit of the tenderest compassion, Polly turned swiftly, and at the sight of her flashing, radiant face, Evelyn faltered, toppled forward and rolled almost under the bed.

The squatter girl bounded to her side, her frantic fingers tearing loose the ropes that Larry and Eve Bremer had made secure around Evelyn's body. They flew away, leaving the girl but a little heap on the floor.

Tears streamed over her dark lashes as Polly gathered the limp head of Evelyn MacKenzie into her arms. And then she prayed as Granny Hope had taught her to pray. "Oh, Father who art in heaven," she said, "the petition slipped from her mind, and she quivered with chattering teeth. "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

Her strong arms lifted Evelyn and as she rolled over on the cot, Polly Hopkins stood up and cried: "Underneath Old Marc's arms are your everlasting arms, God dear!"

RIBBON USED IN MANY WAYS

With Edges All Finished, Supplying Own Lining, Really Timesaver for Home Dressmaker.

Women are beginning to realize the varied and attractive possibilities of ribbon as a dress fabric or dress trimming, and this season sees some lovely evening gowns in which gorgeous ribbons play an important part.

One of the advantages of using ribbon for panels or trunks is that its edges are all finished, it supplies its own lining, usually, and is really a time saver for the home dressmaker.

Then, too, ribbons come in such lovely and unusual colorings, and designs that unusual gowns may be made from them.

For and fabric cut manufacturers find ribbon desirable in dressing up the findings of garments. Sometimes a coat will be lined with pink satin, crepe de chine or other silk fabric, with a deep border of gorgeous brocade.

Handsome brocaded ribbons are effective in the development of vests, waistcoats and other dress accessories.

A graceful dinner gown recently seen, in which ribbon played a part, was of American Beauty chiffon cut with round neck, short sleeves and a straight skirt with cascading drape of one side. Gold and black beaded ribbon was used to form two long panels reaching from the skirt down to the hem line, and a wide of ribbon was caught about the waist and fastened at one side, two loops of the ribbon drooping over the cascade side drape of chiffon.
